

TIMBER PLUS

DESIGN MAKE COMPETITION

The University of Tasmania invites Architecture, and Interior, Industrial and Furniture Design students from all Australian Universities to participate in a special competition-based learning-by-making unit at the School of Architecture and Design in Launceston, Tasmania this summer.

In the studio, multidisciplinary student teams will compete in developing novel products and adding value to unique Tasmanian timber species in a timber design competition sponsored by the Tasmanian Timber Promotion Board.

To learn about Tasmanian timbers, experience a summer at the School of Architecture and Design in Tasmania, and have your chance to win a share in $2000 of prizes, contact us and express your interest in participating. Cross-institutional enrolment will also allow you to count this summer studio as part of your degree. Further details will be announced shortly.
